The NMFTA's NMFC updates will officially roll out on July 19, 2025, but here's the good news: Packer Freight is ahead of the curve.

If you're moving LTL freight with us, you're already in good shape. We proactively updated your commodity classifications months ago to stay in sync with the new rules—because that's how we roll.

Who's impacted?

Every LTL shipper and carrier, but don't stress, we've got it handled.

What's changing?

- Updated classifications, density rules, and descriptions for LTL commodities
- Standardized guidelines to simplify the chaos
- More details coming from NMFTA - we'll keep you posted as they drop

Why the shake-up?

- To streamline classification
- Improve pricing accuracy
- And boost consistency across the industry

How does it affect you?

- Pricing: We're actively reviewing updates and will contact you directly if there's an impact on your account
- Transit Times: No disruptions expected
- Carrier Compliance: Our carrier partners are already aligned
- Rebills/Claims: Same process, but we'll flag you if anything changes

There isn't anything you need to do right now. Just keep shipping. We're monitoring the updates, so you don't have to.

Not Shipping LTL with Packer Freight Yet?

Now's a great time to join the team.

Got questions? We've got answers.